

MatchRead US Open MVP Feature Priorities

Objective

Create the most engaging digital bracket experience for the US Open. Every feature should increase emotional investment, daily retention, league competition, or organic sharing. Avoid spending engineering time on generic tennis-app functionality before launch.

Tier 1 – Must Have

Pick Confidence

Allow users to assign confidence (1–10 or 1–5 stars) to every pick. High-confidence misses create memorable moments.

Bracket Health

Show bracket status (Elite, Surviving, Hanging On, In Trouble) instead of only a score.

Biggest Miss

Highlight each user's most costly incorrect pick after every round/day.

Perfect Picks Remaining

Display remaining perfect picks and tournament-wide perfect bracket count.

Live Leaderboard Movement

Show rank changes (+/-), biggest climber, new personal best.

League Highlights

Automatically generate fun labels such as Biggest Climber, Upset King, Biggest Collapse, Cold Streak.

Daily Recap

Yesterday's results, biggest upset, league movement, and today's key matches.

Tier 2 – High Value If Time Allows

Fan Pick Percentages

Display what percentage of users picked each player.

AI Match Insights

Surface interesting consensus or upset opportunities without giving betting advice.

Upset Alerts

Notify users when a low-picked player is close to winning.

MatchRead Pulse

After every completed match, explain how that result affected the user's bracket, ranking, and league chances.

Tier 3 – Nice to Have

Share Cards

One-tap shareable graphics for rankings, wins, achievements, or last place.

Prediction DNA

End-of-tournament personality (Risk Taker, Favorite Lover, Upset Hunter, etc.).

Trophy Cabinet

Persistent achievements across tournaments.

Bracket Timeline

Visual history showing where a bracket stayed alive or fell apart.

Engineering Philosophy

Do not optimize for being another tennis scores app. Optimize for creating a March Madness-style social event around the US Open. Every feature should answer one of three questions: (1) Did something change for me? (2) Did I move in my league? (3) Do I have something worth sharing?